

UMANA 2017: “Help Ukrainians Help Themselves”

By Drs. George Hrycelak and Andriy Ripecky

The Ukrainian Medical Association of North America (UMANA) held its 44th Scientific Conference and 37th Assembly of Delegates Wednesday through Saturday, June 14-18, 2017, at the Key Bridge Marriott Hotel in Arlington, VA. The theme of the biennial convention was “Rehabilitation and Reintegration – Helping Ukrainians Help Themselves”. The conference was dedicated to familiarizing participants with Ukraine’s health care challenges in the face of ongoing war, economic instability, and political reform.

This year’s conference was unique in many ways. To ensure wide participation, nonprofit foundations responded with generous grant support.

Donors included the Ukrainian Catholic Education Foundation (UCEF), Kyiv Mohyla Foundation of America (KMFA), the Heritage Foundation 1st

Security Savings Bank, Selfreliance Foundation, UMANA Foundation, and Yuri Deychakiwsky, MD. Next, our conference was honored to welcome two distinguished guests from Ukraine, Acting Minister of Health Ulana Suprun, MD and Vadim Sviridenko, Commissioner of the President of Ukraine for rehabilitation of ATO (Anti-terrorist Operation) Wounded Veterans. Moreover, it was truly international in scope, including speakers from the United States, Canada, and Ukraine. For three days, a distinguished faculty of nearly 20 presenters from a variety of medical specialties experienced in rehabilitation and occupational medicine informed an audience of over 70 conferees on war trauma medicine, physical medicine and rehabilitation, post-traumatic stress disorder, effects of limb loss on young lives, and their reintegration into their new realities. Our listeners also heard from specialists in humanitarian relief work and researchers in population response to trauma and displacement.

Prior to the opening of the conference, Dr. Deychakiwsky and Dr. Andriy Ripecky accompanied our visitors from Ukraine to Walter Reed Army Hospital, including the National Intrepid Center of Excellence, where new therapies offer “Hope, Healing, Discovery, and Learning for

Michigan Branch

UMANA Michigan Branch UPRAVA met on June 26, 2017. It was time for changing of the guard to give “Lesia” a respite from her long years of service to our branch. We reviewed some of the common questions that have to be addressed when an organization exists.

1. We agreed that we want to continue existing and to increase the membership.
2. We all agreed that the reason for our existence is mainly social and somewhat educational.
3. We agreed that we are not in any position to expand our objectives mainly because of membership apathy.
4. We agreed that we are comfortable with holding one main meeting on Christmas and possibly another meeting during the year if an interesting event can be organized.

The new UPRAVA is composed of: Zenon Kossak, DDS, president; Lesia Baltarovich, MD, immediate past-president; Marichka Baltarovich, DDS, secretary; Andrew Dzul, MD, treasurer; Member-at-Large Anna Butrij, MD; Member-at-Large Christina Zachar, MD; and, on the Committee for the Christmas Function are Chairperson Marichka Baltarovich, DDS, Christina Zachar, MD, Christine Dzul, and Jeanne Kossak.

President's Message

Since this is my first message as the new UMANA president, allow me to thank all of you, our members, for this honor. It is an exciting time to serve in this role at this historic moment in medical practice in the countries we feel most connected with - the United States, Canada, and Ukraine. Our recently concluded Scientific Conference focused on many of the clinical challenges facing our colleagues in Ukraine. Our keynote speaker, Dr. Ulana Suprun, Acting Health Minister of Ukraine and former UMANA member, highlighted the extremely complicated task of reforming and modernizing Ukraine's health care system.

This discussion took place against the backdrop of the ongoing, often bitter debate in the U.S. over the efforts to reform our own system. The parallel processes we are witnessing can provide us with valuable insights that might prove helpful in finding a way forward. Dr. Suprun's frustration with the entrenched medical bureaucracy in Ukraine sounds eerily similar to the battles in the U.S. among competing interests such as insurance companies, health care institutions, pharmaceutical companies, and government agencies.

What to do? I think Dr. Suprun's call for activism is very much on target. She encourages us to express our views to Ukraine's political leadership directly but also to support the efforts of the many U.S. government officials sympathetic to Ukraine. Beyond this, I was tremendously impressed by the dedicated idealism of the health care professionals from Ukraine who participated in our June conference. We also had the honor of hosting North America-based colleagues, all of them actively laboring to elevate the practice of health care in Ukraine to Western standards. They're all devoted, and they clearly appreciate the interest and support of our medical community. So, get in touch, let them know you're paying attention. Depending on your own availability and resources, you can then participate in whatever way makes sense - offering your time, expertise, equipment, and most critically your friendship and support. The names and contact information of a sample of colleagues already active in this work along with their interests and projects can be found under the Resources tab on the UMANA website.

Sincerely,
Andriy Ripecky, MD

After Friday lectures, conferees spent a quiet evening at the traditional UMANA reunion dinner. Vadim Sviridenko spoke movingly of his personal struggle to recover from grievous injuries suffered in battle at Debaltsevo in winter and to now lead Ukraine’s efforts to develop a system of care for injured veterans of the ATO. While enjoying a wonderful dinner, the group revived old friendships while breaking out in renditions of favorite Ukrainian songs and staying long enough to be coaxed out of the room by the cleaning crew. Saturday afternoon was dedicated to a bus tour of “Ukrainian” Washington, DC, with stops at the Taras Shevchenko statue and the recently installed Holodomor Memorial.

The conference concluded with the Keynote Address and Awards Banquet. Minister of Health Dr. Suprun spoke with great passion of her commitment to fundamentally transform Ukraine’s health care system, focusing on all aspects, including training, clinical care, research, and financing. Dr. Suprun received a recognition award for her exemplary work in helping Ukraine’s evolving health system, and Dr. Buniak was awarded recognition for his service to UMANA as the now past-president.

During the cocktail hour preceding the Awards Banquet, numerous humanitarian organizations based in the U.S. targeting health care in Ukraine were able to showcase their projects for all attendees. We encourage members to connect with which ever group most closely reflects one’s interests and become involved. Please visit our website at www.umana.org/resources.php in the “humanitarian” tab to see a list of organizations concerned with healthcare in Ukraine.”

The 37th Assembly of Delegates was held concurrently on Saturday afternoon, conducting the biennial business meeting of UMANA. The association’s financial affairs and budget were reviewed and confirmed, and reports of all committees were presented. Elections of new officers for the upcoming two years were held with the following results: President Dr. Andriy Ripecky, Vice President Dr. Oleh Wolansky, President Elect Dr. Peter Lenchur, immediate Past President Dr. Borys Buniak, Secretary Lida Wozny, Treasurer Dr. Liza Pilch, and Chapter Representative Dr. Andrew Dzul.

Several points and themes emerged across our speakers’ presentations.

◆ While facing numerous problems, all conveyed a notable sense of optimism for the future.

◆ Assistance is valued and appreciated when offered as a collegial, collaborative effort.

◆ Training across many disciplines is needed and welcomed. Collaboration among disciplines was repeatedly emphasized as key by our presenters, whether speaking of neurosurgery or psychotherapy.

◆ Technology is good, but the systematic application of effective, less costly, and more available treatments or devices, such as simple, well-designed and locally produced prostheses is vital.

◆ For psychological trauma affecting large numbers of people, treatment by trained, low-level providers such as counselors or bachelor’s level staff has shown great promise.

◆ In dealing with disability, resetting expectations across society is vital.

◆ Whether referring to physical or psychological disability, an emphasis on recovery and restoration of function needs to be introduced to elevate Ukraine’s healthcare practice to world standards.
